Writing Your Next Chapter...

TRANSITION PLANNING

New Role. New Goals. Same You—Stronger.

CLARITY | STRATEGY | LASTING IMPACT

Overview

This individual development is designed to help leaders transition between roles, companies, or careers. The objectives include gaining insights into the skills required for the next opportunity and the competencies that you already possess. The goal is to bridge the gap.

If you are a leader ready to strategically transition, this development is for you. This highly customized growth opportunity enables you to assess the 4 Components of Successful Transitions. They are...

1. Creating alignment between strategy and operations
2. Maximizing individual and collective impact
3. Building agility and upskilling
4. Leveraging influence and impact

Exploring these components can be pivotal in planning a fulfilling transition to whatever is next in your future. You will have the opportunity to engage in in-depth, individualized exploration that offers a confidential arena for you to discuss successes, struggles, intentions, and aspirations. You will get tools that enable you to confidently lean into your next leadership role.

Is this for you?

Deep-dive development isn't for everyone. It requires self-awareness, commitment, and persistence in the quest for self-discovery. Consider these statements to decide if you're ready for immersion in writing your next chapter...

- It's time for change but you aren't certain about what that change should be
- The change has happened and you recognize the need for refined leadership skills
- You have uncertainty about what you want to accomplish in the next role
- You recognize the need to upskill
- It's time to leverage your strengths
- You want the skills to move to and through the next steps of your leadership journey

The Process

Before beginning a Leadership Transition Planning engagement, Smikle Training Services conducts a 30-minute interview to develop clarity about your desires. This interview provides both of us with the opportunity to assess whether your objectives are realistic and whether they can be met through this type of experience.

Grounding Activities

Transition Self-Assessment – this comprehensive tool will help you reflect on your path. This reflection serves as the foundation for moving forward in a thoughtful, informed manner.

Individual Transition Plan – this tool helps guide the process of framing the leadership competencies required for your future. Not only is it important during the process, it will be very useful in maintaining momentum and future-focused action.

Optional Grounding Activities

Reflected Best-Self Assessment – this optional measure gathers insights from people who play a role in your life. This can include family, friends, colleagues, and any other people who may be able to aid you in developing a deeper understanding of your individual impact.

Successful Transition Sessions

Bi-Weekly Sessions – Twelve 50-minute sessions are designed to help you establish a firm foundation for evolving into your best leader self. Action learning, reading, and many additional resources will allow you to understand and apply the 4 Components of Successful Transitions. Each session provides actionable tools and strategies that can be immediately implemented.

Plus/Delta Analysis – upon completion of the 12 sessions, we will formally evaluate both the progress and the process.

Joanne L. Smikle, PhD

Joanne L. Smikle, PhD, a respected authority on human and organization development, provides virtual and on-site services to businesses across the country. She also partners with individuals who are ready to reflect, recalibrate, and retool. Her belief is that successful transitions are not just possible, but probable with the right tools and guidance.

Dr. Smikle offers individualized development that guides thoughtful evolutions at any stage of life. A noted author, her articles are featured in publications that inform business, industry, and government.

Your Next Chapter Matters

smiklespeaks.com

info@smiklespeaks.com